DataDownload Data for Analysis of Icelandic Burning Blanket Surveys. The primary goal of this research is to predict the extent and volume of fires in the Icelandic islands of Surtsey, Aegir, and Hornnufandasta by monitoring the sizes of debris fields using satellite images. The second goal is to relate the fire predictions to impacts to wildlife and people. It is anticipated that the satellite-derived data will provide new insights regarding the natural and anthropogenic factors influencing the fire regime, and will allow the fire management and wildlife conservation agencies in the US and Iceland to better understand trends over time.
