I want to render php inside of the link and have the user hit a button to submit the data. Can anyone show me how this would look? I have already got the form to render out into the link that I want to use. I have a file named submit.php that I am trying to use in my link. That is what I have in submit.php I am trying to use the following link: echo "In here i want to get the submit info and submit it " I just don't know what to put inside of the action or the name. I want the submit button to submit a value called "name". A: echo "In here i want to get the submit info and submit it "; In the end, the action of the form has to be set in your but you can also set it using the method suggested by J.C EDIT
