“We want our fans to be the best fans of any sport in the world,” said Oliver Zaugg, Senior Director of Franchise Development and Inclusion. “While the 24 official games released during the last 12 years of FIFA have offered fans a unique experience, FIFA 22 delivers a new level of realism. We are extremely grateful for the ongoing support from fans around the world and the opportunities this brings.” “We are a global organisation, with more than one billion social media followers and we have more than 50 million social media fans,” said David Rutter, Head of Digital at EA SPORTS. “This game is all about the fans and we want to create a FIFA more intense than ever before. We really value our fans’ feedback and are more than happy to incorporate the changes they suggest and ensure the game is as authentic as possible. We will continue to provide updates on our social channels.” “To date, the incredible support we have received from fans has been a key reason why we have been able to develop FIFA to become one of the most successful sports games in history,” said Tony Chapman, FIFA Publisher. “Our commitment to fans hasn’t changed and will continue to be front and centre in all our decisions and actions.” Hard work and team-spirit have helped Super League team Wakefield Wildcats to their first grand final in almost 10 years. All the team’s strengths have come out. We’ve been a complete team. We believe we can get a result but you can’t win a game of rugby without knowing how to lose. That’s what we’ve done and that’s how we’ve got here.” But Vicelich was also full of praise for Wakefield’s fans - the team’s nickname is the Wildcats for a reason. “We are one of the best teams in the world,
