Creo 6 Help Center. Sophie Turner, the younger of the Turner sisters, plays a pivotal role in Game of Thrones Season 7. From the moment she strutted out in a floor-length robe and a cleavage-baring corset she has stolen the show in a way previously unthinkable. That might explain why the team behind this show really wants to keep her character around and that seems like it is working. There has been some murmuring that the show is making a big deal out of her character getting set in a romantic relationship with someone in the future, even though her character hasn't spoken a word in Season 7. That is true and a part of that might be from the producers trying to keep her character important to the story. "That is happening, I think. Even in this last script they were referring to her." Turner was asked about that and was explicit that things were going on behind the scenes: "That is definitely happening in this. Even in this last script they were referring to her. But I was like, 'Oh my god.' I felt really flattered. But it is meant to be." The actresses appearing on the show didn't have to pay her as they do the more famous actresses but they seemed happy to have her there. The actress added that she wouldn't rule out a return appearance, which I think is a good idea. My question, what does she think of the two guys her character is currently flirting with? "I'm straight though. I can't kiss a girl. I'm too straight for that." It would be interesting if they were trying to imply there was a romantic interest but that would be insane. Turner is a very cute 19 year old girl but she is 19 years old. There is no shame in that and the fact that the producers said they were excited for this means they weren't going to turn it into a joke. It is hard to get into really meaningful spoilers with the show, though there was something in the novels that indicated that Sansa might end up in a relationship with one of two characters,
