I am somewhat confused as to how are sets (of formal language) defined that have the # closure property. My first question is, for a given set $A$, what is $A$'s # closure property. Is it that, for any member $x \in A$ and for any $y \in A$, $x # y \in A$? Also, does the condition that A be recursive influence the existence of the # closure property? A: The # closure property is equivalent to the claim that, given $x,y \in A$, $x#y$ (and hence, by induction, $x#y$'s constant), should be in the set $A$, or that $x # y \in A$. So for a recursive set $A$, it is the case that for each $x \in A$ and for each $y \in A$, $x # y \in A$, and hence, the # closure property holds. This works for sets with # closure property for arbitrary $x$ and $y$. Since that requires that $A$ be recursive, the # closure property holds for sets with $A$ recursive. If one wants to prove that $A$ has $y$'s # closure property for a particular $y$, it is possible to prove the claim by induction, but the induction proof is very different than the proof that was given here. /* * Copyright (C) 2008 Apple Inc.
