Re-Loader Activator V2.0 RC 4

this is a pre-release of re-loader activator v2.0 rc 4. the following changes have been made to this release: corrected installation paths for microsoft office 2011 and 2010, and windows 7 sp1. corrected the installer and uninstaller to work with windows 10 (version 1803). the re-loader activator is a tool for re-loading the content of your home directory if it got corrupted. the main advantages of this tool are: no data is lost. no need to lose time in re-loading the lost data. no need to open and shut the lid to reload the data. the re-loader activator is not compatible with the re-loader-bakery. if you are using the re-loader-bakery, you should use the re-loader-bakery instead. the re-loader activator works with the re-loader-core. this is the 4th release candidate of the re-loader activator for the servo browser engine. you can test this re-loader in servo nightlies via the servo nightly channel on . if all goes well, this will be the version that will be put into servo proper for the servo 1.0 release. since the previous release, there were no critical issues so this version should be about as stable as a release candidate can be. this release has been tested on os x and linux. it should work on windows too, but it hasn't been tested there. new features: the servo nightly builds now have the ability to build the re-loader and activator from source. the re-loader is now built as a separate binary rather than a library. the only way to get the re-loader is via servo's nightly builds. the re-loader now compiles on windows and linux, too. the re-loader now detects and loads if there is a servo nightly that is compatible with the version of the re-loader it is being run on. the re-loader now detects if the web application is running in servo. for all previous features, see the re-loader wiki. all feedback, bug
