Cracking Adobe Photoshop is not as straightforward as installing it. It requires a few steps to bypass the security measures that are in place. First, you must obtain a cracked version of the software from a trusted source. Once you have downloaded the cracked version, you must disable all security measures, such as antivirus and firewall protection. After this, you must open the crack file and follow the instructions on how to patch the software. Once the patching process is complete, the software is cracked and ready to use.

The Topaz Studio options panel doesn't work as well as the new options panels in most other software. I found that the Topaz Studio presets didn't work as well as the other presets in the software, and most were the same. That's less than ideal. I really like the new generalized Lightroom-like Presets panel, however. It's much better conceptually because you don't have to learn what layer a specific preset would be applied to. I wish the placement of the dollar icon was a bit better. The ability to toggle between 9-point and 11-point text in the Type panel is a common workflow in Photoshop. The columns drop-down along the right side of the Type panel now lets you choose between 9-point, true 10-point, and 11-point text. Perfect! First, it's good to have a solid image management and RAW conversion tool, but the product doesn't compare very well to the competition. Nothing beats the speed or reliability of Nik Software's DPP v9. Other products, including the Adobe RAW Converter, are available, but in my opinion, fall far short of DPP. In fact, DPP v9 is so powerful that it lets you do what you used to have to do yourself. An example, I worked on a portrait of an old friend, "Johnny." I started off on his desktop computer, then imported his photo into Sony's new A9 II. I updated his RAW file with the new exposure levels. Then I exported his RAW file to my image management software to work on. Then I went to Adobe's web site and downloaded the new DPP v9. I imported the new edited RAW file back into my software, and imported the edited JPEG back into the web site. And all I had to do was generate Johnny's new DPP v9 preset, called "Johnny Johnny" and it's done. There is no doubt that we're seeing the future, and I wish the future would arrive a little sooner.
